Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 26 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very windy but skies brightening through Friday.

Today:
Rain clearing the region by mid-morning with brighter skies and blustery showers following, primarily along the coast. Widely windy, with Storm Arwen bringing an increasing risk of gales for exposed coasts. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Winds strengthening through the evening, with severe gales along coasts and over high ground overnight. Outbreaks of rain spread southwards through the night, turning wintry over high ground. Widely frosty. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
Morning showers clearing east of the Pennines to leave a drier afternoon with some sunny spells. Feeling cold owing to significant wind chill in strong and gusty northerly winds. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
A frosty start to Sunday but dry with much lighter winds. Turning cloudier and less cold through Monday and into Tuesday with outbreaks of light rain at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.